

APOLOGY

MADE TO SENATE BY MR. FRYE OF MAINE

FOR HIS RULING ON THE SOUTH CAROLINA RUMPUS.

THE PUNISHMENT OF SENATORS

Causing Some Worry Among the Committeemen—An Invitation to the President Withdrawn.

Washington, Feb. 27.—President pro-tem Frye of the Senate, this morning
apologized to the body for "ordering that the names of the Senators from South Carolina be removed from the rolls and to the Senator from Washington (Mr. Turner) for overlooking that Senator's appeal from the decision of the chair and failure to put the same to the Senate.

INVITATION

To President Roosevelt Withdrawn. Some Southern People Angry Over the Tillman Affair.

Washington, Feb. 27.—No statement was obtainable at the White House today in connection with the action of Lieutenant Governor Tillman of South Carolina in withdrawing the invitation to the President to present the sword to Major Jenkins. It was indicated, however, that Roosevelt might ignore the withdrawal of the invitation as being unworthy of notice.

Washington, Feb. 27.—President Roosevelt will ignore the request of Lieut. Governor Tillman of South Carolina that he withdraw his acceptance of an invitation to present a sword to Major Jenkins. He will not attend the ceremony either
and so closes the incident.

Augusta, Ga., Feb. 27.—Lieutenant Governor James H. Tillman of South Carolina, who is in the city says that in deference to requests by wire from the subscribers to the fund for the Mical Jenkins sword, he has sent the following telegram to President Roosevelt:

"A short while ago I had the honor
to address your excellency a letter requesting that on the occasion of your visit to Charleston you present a sword to Major Mical Jenkins of the First United States Volunteer cavalry
of whose gallant services you spoke
so highly, your words being engraved on the scabbard. You accepted the invitation for which we thank you. I am now requested by contributors to the sword fund to ask that you withdraw said acceptance.

"JAMES H. TILLMAN.
"Late Colonel" of the First South Carolina Volunteer Infantry and Lieutenant Governor of South Carolina.
In explaining the sending of the telegram, Lieutenant Governor Tillman
said:

"It is with much regret that I am directed, or rather required to have sent the telegram I did, especially in view of the fact that I am so closely related to one who but a few days ago
was subjected to an affront which was seemingly, or at least the people who contributed to the purchase of the sword think unwarranted."

SENATORS

IN COMMITTEE DISCUSS THE SENATE ROWDYISM.

Another Meeting Thursday Afternoon
to Consider the Tillman-McLaurin Affair.

Washington, Feb. 27.—The Senate Committee on Privileges and Elections
discussed the Tillman-McLaurin case for hours. Foraker said the punishment accorded Tillman should be more severe than that of McLaurin. This area of the Democrats badly declared that his party would not submit to any suspension, but agreed to some punishment for each of the party.
The idea of censure seems to dominate.

Washington, Feb. 27.—The suggestion was afterward
made that Senator Tillman should

MEMORIAL EXERCISES HELD IN HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

THE PRINCE AND THE PRESIDENT

Are Among Those Present—Secretary
Hay's Eulogy—Banquet for Prince
in New York.

Washington, Feb. 27.—The memorial exercises in honor of the late President McKinley in the House of Representatives drew a most impressive gathering to the galleries and floor of that great chamber today. Hours before the time announced for the opening of the ceremonies the crowd began
to pour into the white domed building.
The seating accommodations of the house had been doubled by the addition of hundreds of chairs. The right wing was reserved for the senate and diplomatic corps.

At 11:30 the marine band, stationed in the lobby, behind the speaker's desk, played "Nearer My God, to Thee."
Lord Pauncetote, the British Ambassador, dean of the diplomatic corps, accompanied by Mr. Wu, the Chinese minister arrived at 11:50. Soon other members from the foreign countries
arrived and took their seats in the front rows to the right of the speaker. At five minutes before the noon hour the speaker called the assemblage to order, the blind chaplain, Condon offering prayer.

The journal of the last day's session
of the house was then read in the routine manner.
Lieut. General Miles appeared in the center of the door way at 12:20 and after being announced was conducted to his seat. "His Royal Highness, Prince Henry of Prussia," cried the clerk.
The speaker and House rose as one man and the royal visitor came down
the center aisle escorted by Representative Grosvenor and Senator Foraker.
He was followed by Ambassador Von Holleben. Simultaneously with the Prince's arrival the marine band struck up a German air. Until the last strains of the national air died away,
the Prince, statesmen, officers and plain people remained standing and were finally seated again by a strike of the speaker's gavel. President Roosevelt and his cabinet then appeared everyone rising as the chief executive, escorted by Senator Foraker and General Grosvenor of Ohio, chairman of Senate and House Memorial committee, and came down the aisle and remained thus until "My Country"
had been rendered by the band. The President took a chair beside the Prince. The regular program was carried out, the eulogy on the late President being pronounced by Secretary Hay.

At the close of Secretary Hay's oration, which was loudly applauded and enthusiastically received, the diplomats and celebrities filed out and as a further mark of respect the House adjourned till tomorrow.

Washington, Feb. 27.—Prince Henry
and party reached the Pennsylvania station from New York at 9 today on schedule time. Troops F and G of the Second Cavalry and a detail of the engineer corps acted as escort to the German embassy. The ride to Washington was practically without incident. The Prince slept well and awoke refreshed at 7 o'clock, taking breakfast
during the ride from Baltimore.

Washington, Feb. 27.—Prince Henry
will visit Mt. Vernon this afternoon and place a wreath on the tomb of Washington.

Chattanooga, Feb. 27.—Louis Strong of this city has two large gray and black horses captured in Cumberland mountains
near Rhyolite, Tenn. which will be presented to Prince Henry on his arrival
in this city Sunday.

Boston, Feb. 27.—Government officials state that Prince Henry will not visit Canada, as has been reported.

BEAUTY OF PHRASING.

Accomplishments of the Noted Prima Donna Gadschi.

Great beauty of phrasing in opera
singing is said by the critics to be an accomplishment that overcomes many minor defects. To sing with ease and moderation, although not possessing a large voice, is a grace that makes
the reputation of many operatic stars.
Johanna Gadschi, the well known prima donna whose reputation has been made in Wagnerian parts, is noted for her beauty of phrasing. The same can be said for Miss Ethel Balch, who was
for a number of seasons the prima donna with several well known opera organizations, but who has cast her lot with the company presenting "The Girl From Chili," which will be seen here in the near future, and she wonders that "When one woman out of a hundred has nothing to say the other ninety-nine are asking what is the matter with her."

EDITORS TO THE KAISER.

New York Feb. 27.—The American
editors who dined with Prince Henry
last night as guests of Herman Ridder,
sent a cablegram of greeting to Kaiser Wilhelm. It was submitted by Melville E. Stone, and after cordial endorsement by the guests was forwarded as follows:

"To the German Emperor: The editors of the daily papers of the United States, 1,000 in number, in honor of your illustrious brother, send you cordial greetings and all good wishes for a long and prosperous reign. We shall hail the presence of Prince Henry
in this country as an omen of even closer ties of amity and heartily appreciate all the splendid and repeated overtures of friendship you have been graciously pleased to extend.

"MELVILLE E. STONE.
"Secretary."

STORMS CONTINUE

Throughout the Coast Region and Great Damage Results to Prop- erty and Stock.

San Francisco, Feb. 27.—Storms
continue throughout the coast region
and town and country are suffering from floods and wind. The creeks have become torrents; rivers are out of the banks, lowlands are flooded, railway traffic is interrupted and bridges and building have been carried away. The levees along the Sacramento are giving a way. Thousands of acres of heavily lands have been inundated, much live stock has been drowned and a number of lives were lost in wrecked buildings.

JEALOUSY

Causes Murder and Suicide—Man De- serts His Family For a Woman

at Pittsburgh.
Pittsburgh, Pa., Feb. 27.—This morning W. F. Reynolds, a Bradford, Pa.
shot and instantly killed Margaret Lambert of London, Pa., at No. 505
Warren street. On earlier passed through the woman's apartment and shot her through the heart. Reynolds fired two shots at his own head
and is dead. The couple were seated in a corner of the parlour of the training hotel, and Reynolds' longed disappointment led to the murder. Reynolds about once his family through inflation to the woman.

REMARIED.

Richland County Couple Divorced Sev- eral Years Ago Are Again United in Marriage.

Marshall, O., Feb. 27.—A romantic feature attends the issuing of a marriage license in probate court to Jacob Bloodhart and Katie L. Bloodhart, both of Shelby. No consent of parents or guardians was necessary as Jacob is 40 and his bride to be is 39. The romance in connection with the union
is that the parties were married years ago and had a married daughter. But some years ago differences arose between them and they were divorced.
That happened shortly before the outbreak of the Spanish American war.
To crown his unhappy domestic memories Bloodhart enlisted in the army.
He was sent to the Philippines, where he served until a short time ago.
About two weeks ago he returned to Shelby. Whether the heroism he had exhibited won anew the love of his wife, or absence had made the heart grow fonder, the couple agreed to let bygones be bygones and make a second venture on the matrimonial sea.

ONE BISCUIT ONLY

GIVEN EACH DAY

Pitiable Condition of a Crew of a French Bark for Many Days.

Seattle, Wash., Feb. 27.—A special to the Times from Port Angeles, Wash.
says:
The French bark Los Adelphes, 162
days from Madagascar, bound for Portland, Oregon against which there is insurance of 20 per cent., arrived
here yesterday with almost every man of the crew down with scurvy. For the last 25 days they had been subsisting on one biscuit per day to each man
and were for some time without fresh water except rain water. The cook,
F. L. Fletcher, died of ague and ex-posure, and was buried at sea.

Five of the crew are so sick that arrangements are being made to send them to the hospital and the remainder of the crew will remain here until they recuperate.

The condition of the crew is pitiful.
Captain F. Coffin is himself obliged to wear a bandage covering
his nose and face to hide the disease.
A supply of food and all other things
necessary to make the men comfortable has hurriedly put aboard. The vessel weathered the storm without damage.

BOSTON BLAZE TODAY.

Boston, Feb. 27.—Fire which started
at 3:20 o'clock this morning in Bow-doin Square hotel on Court street, gutted the fourth and fifth floors of the south end of the hotel, and caused a loss of several thousand dollars. About 50 men, women and guests were rescued by means of ladders. There were no casualties.

DAVIS VERDICT.

Jury Gives the Ex-Cashier Judgment for $9000 Money Lost in Gambling.

Vincennes, Ind., Feb. 27.—The jury
in the Davis case returned a sealed verdict at midnight. It was read this morning and gives Davis $9,000. Davis
recently pleaded guilty to embezzlement while cashier of a Washington, Ind., bank, and had sued to recover money lost in gambling.

NEW SUPERINTENDENT.

Dayton, Feb. 27.—Dr. A. F. Shepherd
of Toledo, was appointed superintendent of the Dayton Insane Asylum today and will assume charge March 1st.

Pupils Panic Stricken.

Toledo, O., Feb. 27.—Three hundred and fifty pupils in the Evangelical Lutheran school were thrown into a panic yesterday, and that some were not injured is almost a miracle.
A class was reciting, and Otto Johnson, one of the members, fell to the floor dead. The children all became frightened, and many of them
leaped from the windows and ran home, while others were trampled in
the effort to get out of the building.
None were hurt, however, seriously.

Killed Himself.

Dayton, Feb. 27.—Frank Cullen, man, aged 72 years, has followed the example set by his two brothers,
Charles and George, and committed suicide by shooting himself. He was a possessor of considerable wealth. Concerned in looking over the loss of his pos-sion to his father's estate probably led him to take his life.

Plants in Danger.

Plants in danger of being destroyed by parasites. The idea of a French botanist. He proposes to use scientific cultures of parasites
to destroy and invade the plants in order to make them proof against the attacks of those parasites.

LAD

OF FIFTEEN RUNS AWAY WITH A HORSE

Granville, O., Feb. 27.—O. B. Mahara,
a young lad aged about fifteen years,
a son of Mr. Albert Mahara, an employe of Pratt & Montgomer's planing mill in Newark, created considerable excitement here by attempting to steal a horse and buggy belonging to Mr. Charles Twining. Young Mahara
put in an appearance in the village
last Monday afternoon, and after wandering about the place for a short time he was seen unhitching a horse belonging to a Mr. Batts, who is in the employ of Miller & Howell, the Newark meat merchants. He was told to leave the horse alone. He then went around to Case'sivery stable and endeavored to hire a horse and buggy, claiming that he wanted to use it to drive out into the country, where he was going to remain over night with friends. Mr. Case refused to let the boy have the rig on account of his youthfulness. The boy, not to be deterred, then went up the street as far as the residence of Mrs. Harrier Simmett, where a beautiful large black horse belonging to Mr. Charles Twining was standing, hitched to a post.
Mahara was in the act of unhitching
the animal when Mr. Edward Smoots noticed what he was doing, and said,
"What are you doing with that horse?
that is not your horse. It belongs to Mr. Twining." The boy said that it was his horse, and pumped into the buggy and drove rapidly away. Mrs.
Twining was notified and Mr. Edward Smoots, hastily saddling his pony,
galloped off after the youthful horse thief. The boy, however, drove very rapidly, and Mr. Smoots did not succeed in overtaking him until he had pursued him for a distance of over three miles, when he caught up with him near the residence of Mr. James Ransower. The horse was in a lather of sweat, and had been driven very hard. The boy was brought to town and turned over to the mayor, who notified his father. Mr. Mahara says that this son is a very bad boy, and that he will immediately take steps to have him sent to the Boys' Industrial School at Lancaster.

Mr. Nelson Burkland of the firm of Kaufman & Latimer of Columbus, is visiting at his home in the village for a few days.

Mr. and Mrs. William Owens of Franklin county, who have been visiting friends and relatives in this vicinity
for the past week, returned home
today, after having had a most delict-
ious visit.

Mr. and Mrs. Burton Cline have gone to Iowa, where Mr. Cline has extensive business interests.

Miss Nellie Woods of London, O.,
who has been visiting friends here for the past few days, has returned home.

Mr. Frank Humphrey, a well known man, who has been living with his mother at her home on Main street, for some time, died Wednesday night, his cause being a paralytic stroke received Monday night, although he has been in failing health for several years.
The deceased was a son of the late Frank Humphrey, an ex-cashier of the Newark bank, but passed his boyhood days
in Granville. When out-cast he entered the Advocate office as a copyist, remaining on the staff for several years. He then went east a few years back, the business of Granville, and became one of the best known and strongest men in the county, and was a member of the Granville village board of trustees, and was also a member of the Granville village board of trustees, and was also a member of the Granville village board of trustees.
He was a man of great energy and business ability, and was a man of great influence in the village.

CHAMP CLARK STORIES
Anecdotes of Men High in the Nation's Councils.

Bygone Political Giants From the State of Illinois—Two Grand Old Men From Alabama—Disparity of Ages in the Senate—Senator Morgan's Power as an Orator—Truth of an Old Adage Illustrated—Unprecedented Act of a Soldier.

[Copyright, 1902, by Champ Clark.]

It makes one's heart swell with pride as an American citizen to recall the names of the men who held the center of the stage in the Sucker State from about 1815 till very recent years. Verily there were giants in those days. Besides Lincoln, Douglas and Yates there were General James Shields, the illustrious and chivalric soldier and statesman and major general in two wars, the only man who ever was or who in all human probability ever will be a senator of the United States from three different states and whose edify in bronze adorns Statuary hall; Colonel E. D. Baker, who became a senator from Oregon and died fighting heroically at Ball's Bluff; David Davis, judge of the supreme court, senator in congress, president pro tempore of the senate; Lyman Trumbull, for eighteen years a United States senator and not without presidential aspirations; John A. Logan, major general, senator, vice presidential nominee and according to the evidence of General Grant one of the best two volunteer generals in the Union army, Frank Blair of Mississippi being the other; Richard J. Oglesby, major general, United States senator and thrice governor; John W. Palmer, major general, governor, senator of the United States, nominee for president, who perhaps belonged to more different political parties than any other American that ever lived; Elihu B. Washburn, congressman for a score of years, secretary of state, minister plenipotentiary and envoy extraordinary to France; Judge Krawling, who was in Lincoln's cabinet; "Long John" Wentworth, congressman, mayor prophet of Chicago; Leonard Sewell, the great civil lawyer; Emory Storrs, the brilliant criminal lawyer, and a host of lesser lights. Truly it was the heroic age of Suckerdome.

Two Grand Old Men.
"Old men for counsel, young men for war," is an ancient saw more honored in the breach than in the observance. Alabama evidently believes in the first half of that bary dictum. Whether she believes in the second half this dependent saith not. She has the oldest pair of senators in "the less numerous branch" of the national legislature. General Fetus is 80 and is serving his first term. That he is still in the prime of his powers was clearly demonstrated by the awful canterization which he inflicted on Senator Beveridge last winter, which set the country in a roar and in which he made the cynical declaration that "an orator is held to the rules of neither truth nor common sense."

Senator Morgan is 77 and on the 4th of last March entered upon his fifth term as a conscript father. The combined ages of these two grand old men make a remarkable showing for Alabama.

Time and Space Ignored.
Another unique feature of the senatorial situation in Alabama is that both senators live in the comparatively small city of Selma. Usually there is an unwritten age limit on senators. Generally geography cuts a big figure in their selection, but Alabama appears to be sul generis, ignoring both time and space.

It is not unusual for a state to have one old senator and one young one. Massachusetts, for example, yokes up the sedate, venerable and erudite George Frisbie Hoar, sometimes flippantly denominated "The Cherubic," with the youthful, brilliant and frisky Henry Cabot Lodge. Iowa sends to the senate William B. Allison, 73, who has refused more cabinet portfolios than any other living man, and Jonathan Prentiss Dolliver, 44, who after a splendid career in the house is entering upon what his friends hope is a more illustrious career at the other end of the capitol.

Morgan's Great Learning.
Senator Morgan began his fifth full senatorial term at an age when most men are in the rear, the yellow leaf and resting from the labors of this world and worrying as to their status in the next. But of him it may be said, "Time cannot wither him or custom stale his infinite variety."

All in all it may be safely asserted that he knows more than any other man in public life. His scholarship may not be as accurate as that of some others in particular branches, but he appears to know a great deal about everything. In this respect he closely resembles England's "Grand Old Man," William Ewart Gladstone. He also much resembles him in the grace and jauntness with which he carries his age. No man looking at Senator Morgan's handsome face, massive head, tall and sinewy form, noting his elastic step or listening to his stately eloquence, which flows onward like the resistless current of a mighty river, would pronounce him to be just three-score years.

If the dictum, "Fifty's the soul of wit," be true, then Senator Morgan is the least witty of the conscript fathers present and past except William Vincent Allen of Nebraska, who broke all records for long distance oratory by speaking 11 1/2 hours at one stretch on the bill to repeal the purchasing clause of the Sherman law; Matthew Stanley Quay of Pennsylvania, who consumed fifteen legislative days in expressing his views on the Wilson-Gorman tariff bill, and Senator John P. Jones of Nevada, whose masterful discussion of silver makes a large book.

But these historic linguistic performances were only unusual episodes in the senatorial careers of these eminent publicists. Senator Allen rarely speaks at great length, Senator Jones is neither a frequent nor a prolix orator, and Senator Quay hardly ever speaks at all "in public on the stage." Until the speech referred to he had been regarded as the sphinx of the senate.

Not a Dinner Gong.
Senator Morgan always speaks in extenso. On any subject in which he is interested he knows so much and has so much to say that it requires a long time for him to relieve his mind. Some one asked him how long he could speak on any given subject. "Oh," he replied humorously, "if I study a subject thoroughly and systematize my argument I would consume about three hours; otherwise I could speak indefinitely." He is never tedious, however. In splendor of diction, in wealth of metaphor, in masterful marshaling of facts, in abundance of information, in lofty eloquence, in intrepidity of spirit as well as in the length of his speeches he recalls that immortal Irishman, Edmund Burke, who, taken up one side and down the other, was perhaps the greatest transatlantic orator that ever spoke the English tongue. Macaulay laments the fact that Burke delivered some of his grandest orations to empty benches. He was dubbed "The Dinner Bell" by some wag, who declared that Burke's rising to speak emptied the house of commons as suddenly as a dinner gong would empty the public room of a crowded hotel.

On the contrary, the announcement that Senator Morgan is up at once fills all the seats and standing room in the senate chamber and packs the galleries to suffocation.

It may be truly said of him, as Dr. Johnson said of Oliver Goldsmith, "He touches nothing that he does not adorn." Without extravagance it may be affirmed that he exhausts every subject that he discusses without exhausting the patience of his auditors. It is equally true that he has never uttered a dull sentence during the twenty-five years of his senatorial career.

In the frequency of his speeches he resembles though hardly rivals that illustrious orator, Charles James Fox, for that magnificent Whig declared that he had spoken every night except two during his long parliamentary life, and his only regret was that he neglected to speak then.

Morgan's Intrepidity.
Senator Morgan is utterly fearless and perfectly loyal to his conceptions of his duty to the people. These qualities brought him into antagonism to Cleveland's second administration. It was in the long drawn out debate on the repeal of the purchasing clause of the Sherman law that he fixed upon the Gold Democrats the indelicious nickname of "Cuckoos," which is apt to stick to them quite as long as "Hunkers" and "Barnburners" stuck to the warring factions of the New York Democracy in antebellum days or as "Shappers" and "Antishappers" will adhere to their descendants of a more recent period or as the names "Stalwarts" and "Featherheads" clung to the two wings of the Republican party. In longevity it may equal the name "Know Nothings," which has survived for, lo, these many years.

In passing it may be stated that the announcement the Silver Democrats derived from Senator Morgan's happy characterization of his Democratic opponents was about all they secured in that celebrated debate. "He laughs best who laughs last," and the gold cohorts had the last laugh on that occasion, and it was loud, hilarious and long.

Weapons Ready to Hand.
Lord Bacon hath it, "Reading makes a full man, conversation a ready man and writing an exact man." The first two qualifications Senator Morgan possesses in a phenomenal degree. Considering what a busy life he has led, it is incomprehensible when he found time to learn so much or, having learned it, how he managed to digest and assimilate it. His capacious head in no way resembles a storehouse into which a vast mass of things have been thrust indiscriminately, but rather a well arranged armory in which is found every species of weapon, bright and shining in its proper place, ready for instant use, or an intricate machine in which every wheel, cog, spring and pulley does with utmost precision its predestined work.

He is an academic scholar and a profound lawyer, one of the best in the south. He had never held any civil office except that of presidential elector on the Breckinridge and Lane ticket prior to his election to the senate.

Unprecedented Act of a Soldier.
He served in the Confederate army during the entire civil war, rising from private to brigadier.

In one respect his career as a soldier has no parallel so far as I have been able to ascertain and for that reason deserves to be known of all men. He is the only military officer I ever heard of, from Joshua to General De Witt, who voluntarily resigned a general's commission to accept a colonel's. While others were fusing, fuming, fretting, sulking, resigning or asking to be relieved about some question of rank or seniority of commission he by reason of his great love for the men in his old regiment resigned his commission as brigadier to command once more the soldiers with whom he first enlisted. In that act a Morgan has had no imitators in all the hoary registers of time.

Search through the land of living men; Thou canst not find his like again.

TO MOTHERS

Mrs. J. H. Haskins, of Chicago, Ill., President Chicago Arcade Club, Addresses Comforting Words to Women Regarding Childbirth.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—Mothers need not dread childbearing after they know the value of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. While I loved children I dreaded the ordeal, for it left me weak and sick for months after, and at the time I thought death was a welcome relief; but before my last child was born a good neighbor advised Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and I used that, together with your Pills and Sanative Wash, for four months before the child's birth;—it brought me wonderful relief. I hardly had an ache or pain, and when the child was ten days old I left my bed strong in health. Every spring and fall I now take a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and find it keeps me in continual excellent health."—Mrs. J. H. HASKINS, 3348 Indiana Ave., Chicago, Ill. —$5000 forfeit if above testimony is not genuine.

Care and careful counsel is what the expectant and would-be mother needs, and this counsel she can secure without cost by writing to Mrs. Pinkham at Lynn, Mass.

The Portsmouth Affair.

Rev. A. E. Johnson, after reading the two-column story in yesterday's Advocate, relative to the trouble that has been stirred up at Portsmouth by Evangelist Barrett, who not long ago conducted special gospel meetings in the Plymouth Congregational church here, said that so far as Rev. Mr. Acton was concerned he knew that Mr. Acton stood well in Portsmouth, and that the relations between Mr. Acton and the church were pleasant at all times. Mr. Johnson was pastor of a church at Portsmouth, and being acquainted with all connected with the controversy he speaks with authority.

William Elliott is on the sick list. The literatures of this section are still features of interest. The question, "Resolved, That the signs of the times indicate the downfall of the United States," was discussed at Concord last Thursday night by Fred J. Freese, Harry Turner, Fred Layman and S. P. Elliott. An interesting program was rendered in addition to the debate. On next Thursday night there will be a mock trial, Riley vs. Schooler, in place of the debate.

It's by the words of the people that Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Pills have come into such active demand. The announcements for this medicine are not dependent on the testimony of people so far away that they cannot be authenticated. It's home evidence that convinces because easily substantiated. It's the simple statement of things done and told in the words of the relieved.

Mr. A. Moore of No. 333 Locust st., Newark, Ohio, says: "I was troubled with sleeplessness and had attacks of nervous headaches—the kind that leave one weak. I got a box of Dr. A. W. WITH THE DOCTORS. The prevalence of dyspepsia, a name which is synonymous with indigestion among the American people, has become proverbial, and the reason for this prevalence is easily found in that distinctive American institution, "the quick lunch counter," says a writer in the Philadelphia North American.

The mechanical disintegration of food by mastication or chewing is a most important factor in its easy digestion, and when this is but partially performed the digestion is slow and often imperfect. As there are thirty-two teeth in the normal mouth, it has been suggested by an eminent physician that there should be thirty-two mastications for each mouthful, one for each tooth.

The pressure of business and the hurry and bustle of life in all of our large cities often compel people to spend as short a time as possible over their meals, and thus the food taken is bolted down rather than properly chewed and then slowly swallowed. In addition, in many cases these hurried meals are made up of food that would be difficult of digestion even if eaten slowly.

It is important to know that properly boiled meat or fish is softer and more easily digested than the same meat or fish that is fried, roasted or broiled. All forms of skin are difficult to digest, for the reason that it is impossible to disintegrate them properly by mastication. Fish, flesh or game, that is "gamey" or tainted is very indigestible, because it always contains a poison resulting from its decomposition. Warm bread, freshly baked, is very hard to digest, while, on the contrary, stale bread is extremely easy.

Pasty, especially that made with cooking butter, is a frequent cause of dyspepsia, and still another and very common cause is the want of cleanliness in cooking utensils. The times at which food is taken may also be a factor. Many persons eat at very irregular hours, taking their luncheon on some days at noon, on other days not until late in the afternoon and perhaps sometimes not eating between an early breakfast and a late dinner.

Another cause which is only found in Americans is the use of ice water at meals, which causes dyspepsia by chilling the stomach and so lessening both its secretion and movements, which are very essential to a normal digestion.

ENGINEER ANTIES KILLED.

Fast Freight Collided Near Girard, Two Being Killed, Two Fatally Hurt and Two Seriously Injured --- The News Received by Newark Friends Wednesday Night.

Youngstown, O., Feb. 26.—Two fast Pittsburgh and Western freight trains collided half a mile east of Girard, O., last night, resulting in the death of two men, the fatal injury of two and less serious injuries to two others.

The Dead: Engineer Ransom G. Anties, of Newark, Ohio.

Brakeman Edward Coffey, of Akron, Ohio.

Fatally Hurt: Frank Parting New Castle Junction, Pa.

Conductor William H. Noss.

Seriously Hurt: E. A. Stalk, Chicago Junction, O.

S. A. Cory, of Cortland, O.

The trains, heavily loaded, met head on. The collision was probably the result of a misunderstanding of orders.

Mr. Anties, the dead engineer, was formerly employed at Newark with the B. & O. running extra here, and his home is in Newark at 79 Flory avenue. The latter part of the summer of 1901 Mr. Anties was transferred to the Akron division, running from New Castle Junction to Chicago Junction, at which latter place he made his home.

He had an excellent position where he was, and next month intended to move his family to Chicago Junction. Mrs. Anties with her only son, Roy, aged 6 years is visiting her parents in Alma, Mich., at this time, and in a letter received by Mrs. Thomas Tabler, a neighbor, this week, informed her that in March she expected to come to Newark and pack her goods preparatory to moving to Chicago Junction.

The deceased engineer was 38 years of age and was a capable and honorable man. He had many friends in Newark, especially among the railroad men, who will be pained to learn of his sad death.

The accident happened about nine o'clock Wednesday night, at Girard, a town of about 2500 people about nine miles from Youngstown. The officers here were notified of Mr. Anties' death, and were asked to tell his wife, but as stated he is in Michigan. The remains will probably be taken to Alma for burial.

Another dispatch from Youngstown says:

The trains were heavily loaded fast freights. The westbound freight, loaded with coke had been delayed at Girard for four hours. The eastbound, loaded with merchandise, was three hours late, but had the right of way. The engines were completely demolished and part of the trains thrown off the track. N. G. Kelly, fireman on the west bound train escaped by jumping and was uninjured. Stalk also jumped. Anties was found on the boiler of his engine. Coffey's body has not yet been recovered, although one leg is visible from the debris. Traffic on the line is entirely suspended, and trains are being sent through on other roads. Conductor Charles Fout, of Lennox, Ohio, was in charge of the eastbound train, and Charles Allen of the westbound. Both are unhurt.

Miss Stone Sworn to Secrecy Regarding Identity of Brigands.

Sadriska, Roumania, Feb. 27.—Miss Stone says the brigands swore both of their captives to absolute secrecy regarding any information calculated to establish the identity or other facts likely to compromise their captors. As a matter of fact, the prisoners themselves are very uncertain regarding many details of their wanderings. They did not know, when they were released, in what section of the country they were. An arrangement had been made to release Miss Stone and her companion near Seres, Macedonia, where Dragoon Garguilo and Mr.

She had lived in Granville for the past eighteen years, where she was highly respected by all who knew her. She was a sister of the late Judge E. Abbott, and one brother, Hon. James Abbott of Columbus, survives her. The funeral will take place on Saturday afternoon at three o'clock, the services being conducted by the Rev. Mr. Work and Dr. Baldwin. The remains will be interred in the beautiful Maple Grove cemetery.

THE WATER SUPPLY.

Importance of an Analysis at Regular Intervals.

Water is the most essential to existence of all that man puts into his stomach—indeed the only single thing he cannot live without—and yet there is nothing we eat or drink that so frequently carries in itself the germs of disease.

There is a definite group of diseases which, because they are so especially liable to be spread by means of drinking water, are called water borne diseases, says Youth's Companion. Among these are such scourges as typhoid fever, cholera and dysentery. Mineral poisons are also occasionally dissolved in water and exert their injurious effects upon those who drink it. It is obviously, therefore, a matter of the highest importance that the drinking water should be in its purity above reproach, but the problem for the ordinary man is how to determine this point.

The appearance of the water is by no means conclusive, for it may be beautifully clear and palatable, yet contain myriads of deadly bacteria, or it may be muddy and of a disagreeable odor and taste and yet contain nothing of a really harmful nature. The only way by which absolute certainty can be had lies in a chemical and bacteriological analysis repeated at regular intervals.

If the neighborhood is thinly settled and the well is forty or fifty feet from the nearest house or outbuilding and on higher ground, one may use the water for drinking with a reasonable sense of safety. The same is true of water from a spring which issues from the ground at a level considerably above that of the house and barns, but if water is drawn from wells in a town or from a well near the house or outbuilding, or below their level, or from a spring similarly situated, it is almost sure to be contaminated occasionally, if not constantly, and so is the water of a stream except in an absolutely unsettled country.

In such cases, if no other supply is available, all the water should be boiled and, if possible, filtered as well before being used.

How to Make Graham Puffs.

Graham puffs are delicious for breakfast, luncheon or supper. To make them beat the yolk of one large egg, add to it one cupful of milk and two saltspoonfuls of salt, mixing them thoroughly, and then beat in gradually three-quarters of a cupful of graham and the same amount of wheat flour. When the mixture is smooth and foamy, fold in the stiffly beaten white of the egg. Fill hot muffin irons about one-third full of the batter and bake for about twenty-five minutes.

How to Make Chicken Soup.

Cut a small chicken into pieces and fry it a little in a saucepan with an onion, a chopped green pepper, an ounce of lean raw ham cut in dice shapes and a tomato or two. Let this stand covered tightly for about fifteen minutes, then add two quarts of water and boil for three hours. About an hour before it is done add three tablespoonfuls of rice. Remove the chicken from the soup and serve. This is creole style.

How to Wash Hairbrushes.

Hairbrushes should be washed in hot or tepid water to which soda or ammonia has been added. The brushes should be dipped in and out of the water till clean, taking care that the bristles and handles do not get wet. After rinsing in cold water put them in the air to dry. They should never be dried close to the fire or the bristles will become discolored.

How to Clean Woolen Shaws.

Shawl shaws, a not very dirty, may be cleaned by rubbing them with ammonia and flour mixed in equal proportions, changing it as it gets dirty. This plan is also applicable to woolen shaws, provided they are not made of very heavy wool.

MAIL SERVICE.

Railway Mail Clerk Writes of the Work Required on a Run—A Busy Life.

(Communicated.)

I am often asked if our work is very laborious in the mail car. Allow me to say in reply little understood as it is, even by those whose business interests are largely dependent upon the efficiency of the railway mail service yet this branch of public service is really second to none in importance. In this country of rapid developments nothing has exceeded the growth of the railway mail service. Its development from the crude methods of the early days to the present exactness of detail and general efficiency is as remarkable as anything in the affairs of government or of business.

A mail clerk's daily work usually begins long before his train starts with sorting mail he receives from the city office and from incoming trains. He must receipt for all registered packages. After his train starts he must put on at every station the mail for that station and other lines if any cross there and receive mail from them. As there is one place on our line where there are four stations in five miles it will be seen that the demand on the clerk keeps his work at a high pressure all the time. Then our work keeps the clerk on his feet nearly or all the time while in the car and has to steady himself against the train's motion. But some say "look at the lax off you get". Its true we get some time off but during that time he works. He must make up reports, prepare slips or labels for his next run, check up register receipts, answer official correspondence, "also private if he has a lady friend" then he has or is supposed to study to be prepared for his work while on the road. Much more could be said showing what our duties are and I may write more later on providing you allow space for this.

BEAUTIFYING TOWNS.

Zealous Co-operation of the Citizens the Essential Thing.

Little can be done to beautify and improve a town without well directed co-operation. The ordinary city, like Topsy, "just grew." Sometimes it grows to quaint picturesqueness, like that which the Nuremberg authorities so jealously conserve; sometimes to rank, squalid ugliness, as in the factory towns, says the Springfield (Mass.) Republican. The danger is that as a town outgrows its village simplicity it will degenerate into commonplace and stupid mediocrity, where, with but little more cost it might equally well grow into a lovely, harmoniously developed city. But for this there must be unity and intelligence of plan.

To get any large results, then, large plans must be laid. It is necessary to take a fair look into the future. However little can be done at a time that little should be consistent. The services of experts should be called in to lay out harmonious designs, and in public and private affairs alike genuine civic interest, a pride in making the town beautiful, should prevail.

Let us not be frightened by the fear of expense. Beauty is not necessarily costly. The improvement of the town is not a matter of putting up palaces and decorating the squares with monuments. When there is need for an important new building, let us do the thing handsomely and try to make it a work of art. But the larger problem is not one of money, but of interest, care and wisdom. It is a matter of spotless streets and neat dooryards and tastefully designed houses, all the product of refined taste rather than of wealth.

It costs little more to build a tasteful cottage than a vulgar, pretentious sham. Clean streets are a luxury within the means of every city or town that desires them. Disorderly yards are due to negligence, not to poverty. The essential thing is the zealous co-operation of all good citizens.

Street Signs in Paris.

In Paris, the most artistic city in the world, stress is laid upon handsome designs for street lamps and street signs. This is not a matter of cost, but of good taste. When an artistic design has been chosen, it costs little more to make these omnipresent pieces of street furniture pretty than to make them ugly and ugly. It is taste that makes one shop window attractive and another an eyesore. It is bad taste, coupled with flagrant disregard for the public, which disfigures our streets and the approaches to the city with hideous, sprawling billboards, which, it is to be hoped, can soon be remedied by legislation.

Plank and Brick Sidewalks.

A plank sidewalk laid along the business street of a town will need repairs after two years and must be replaced after five. A brick sidewalk, well laid at the start, will last fifteen years without repair. The difference in cost is not over 50 per cent, while the difference in wear, to say nothing of looks, is ten years.

Advertising Maxims.

The type's face is the advertiser's fortune.

The biggest advertisement sometimes occupies a small space.

It isn't a safe plan to print one advertisement and then wait to see how it works before printing another one.

What Planchard said of fame can easily be said of advertising—"Good fame is like fire; when you have kindled it, you may easily preserve it, but if you once extinguish it you will not easily kindle it again."

How Long a Wink Lasts.

Observations have led to estimating the average duration of an eye wink at forty-hundredths of a second. The Edmonds for times as quickly as it does. During the winking the eyes remain closed for seven-hundredths of a second, which it is almost impossible for us to notice.

MISS ROBERTS

TESTIFIES AGAINST MR. STARKEY AT ZANESVILLE.

Breach of Promise Case Attracts Immense Crowds—The Plaintiff on the Stand.

Zanesville, O., Feb. 27.—For six hours Miss Loretta Roberts occupied the witness stand in the trial of her $25,000 breach of promise case against County Auditor James L. Starkey and told the story of their three years' of courtship yesterday. She was becomingly gowned in a blue skirt, light blue silk waist and black plumed hat. She answered the questions of attorneys in a low, distinct voice, and carried herself with such modesty and gentility that she made a lasting impression on the court, the jury and the audience, which filled every inch of space. Several times, while detailing the alleged attempts of the defendant to take advantage of her she wept, but quickly regained her quiet composure. When court adjourned, however, she was completely exhausted and collapsed in the court room.

Miss Roberts told of meeting Mr. Starkey in 1897, of his persistent courtship, and of their engagement in 1898. Of her refusal to accept a $200 diamond ring from him because she is a Dunkard and does not wear jewelry, of how he told her of his stocks and bonds and farms and bank account, and of how happy he was that now, when he was able to properly support a wife, he had fortunately found the only woman he had ever cared to marry. She said she did not even permit him to kiss her until they were engaged, but immediately after their engagement he persistently attempted undue familiarities. Each time he begged so hard to be forgiven that she forgave him and believed he was only testing her virtue, until in August, 1900, when he took her to Columbus and lured her into a house on Lazelle alley where he made a determined attempt to ruin her. After that she insisted on the marriage being performed at an early date and Starkey set November 6 of that year, but when the time came he put her off, pleading sickness, and finally refused altogether.

Frank Leimbach, one of the most successful of the modern portrait painters of Germany, in a recent article on "Photography for the Painter," makes a very strong argument in favor of long exposure on portrait negatives. He takes the ground that the personality and characteristic expression of the sitter may not be truthfully obtained with the extremely rapid, shutter exposure so much in vogue, and that while of course there is a limit to the amount of mobility of features beyond which it is not safe to go there is, nevertheless, much to be gained by allowing the sitter to know when the exposure is about to be made, that his features may be relaxed and he himself may be at ease. In this way he claims the features gradually assume a state of rest and that the exposure which has meantime been going on and which may extend from five to ten seconds will result in a more satisfactory likeness than if made at high speed.

Preservation of Negatives.
It is stated on good authority that to preserve negatives for any great length of time one fixing bath is not sufficient, and there is nothing gained by having it more than ordinary strength. Removing the plate to a fresh bath of same strength after all traces of chloride of silver have disappeared and following by careful washing renders the negatives in condition to keep indefinitely.

"Fuzziness" in Photos.
"Fuzziness" is the name given to the new school prints, sometimes called artistic or high art photography. There are still many who prefer the distinct, sharp cut, immaculate print of the perfect focus to the smoky, "fuzzy" creations of the "artistic" photographer. Photography at its best is mechanical, and "fuzziness" is but an attempt to imitate drawing in crayon or pastel or something else which is an art in reality.

HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS.

RAILROAD NEWS

An Exciting Run.

Lexington, Ky., Feb. 27.—Engine No. 999 has again figured in a thrilling run on the Southern railway. About a month ago the tender of 999 jumped the rails of a long, high trestle near Shelbyville, Ky., and scared a bunch of people out of a year's growth. Yesterday that same engine No. 999, pulling train No. 13, on the Southern railway short line, from Lawrenceburg to Burgin, jumped the track on a seventy-five foot trestle near Lawrenceburg, and only the engineer's coolness in driving alone at full speed saved the train from being dashed to pieces in the gulch. Railroad men say the tender has a flat wheel, but the officials in the first accident claimed it was a broken flange. It was traveling men who told the story of the narrow escape.

Money to Throw Away.

Wm. Puckett, a B. & O. engineer, was a happy man last evening when he received from Agent Fordyce $6.00 which he had lost Monday. Puckett, when he left Newark, Monday morning was handed the money by a fellow engineer to pay the latter's board bill at Bellaire. Puckett at the time was busy about his engine and carelessly placed the money in his jacket pocket with his orders. When he reached this city in the afternoon and received his new orders he threw the old orders and the money away and thought no more of the matter until he reached Bellaire and started to pay the board bill, then he remembered of throwing the money away with his old set of orders. In the meantime the money had been found and turned over to Agent Fordyce. When Puckett returned to this city Tuesday he spoke of his loss and was told that Mr. Fordyce had the money which was turned over to the engineer. Mr. Puckett said it was not so much the amount of the money he cared about as it was the careless manner in which he had lost it.—Cambridge Jeffersonian.

Fraternal Insurance.

A most important decision for all concerned in fraternal and beneficial order insurance has been announced by the circuit court in Cincinnati. George Bunkers, a saloonist, was rejected as an applicant for the Ancient Order of United Workmen, the constitution forbidding such. He deeded his saloon to his wife and became a member. His widow sued to recover on his policy and the order resisted on the ground that Bunkers was really owner of the saloon all the time, but the jury found otherwise and gave a verdict for $2,000 to the widow. The circuit court sets aside the verdict and grants a new trial. The holding is that an officer of a beneficial or fraternal order can not waive a clause of the constitution. Hence, although all the fees were paid on the policy, the widow can not recover unless she can show her husband was not a saloonist.

Striking Molders Warned by the Court at Mansfield, Ohio—Penalty However, Not Fixed.

Mansfield, O., Feb. 27.—It is feared that serious trouble may yet result over the strike of the union molders at the shop of the Humphreys Manufacturing company. Several weeks ago 25 of the union molders of the plant struck claiming that unjust discrimination was being made against union molders, the shop being what is known as open. The company claimed that the real and only trouble was that the union molders were endeavoring to unionize the shops and to dictate to the company concerning the management of the plant. In a petition for a temporary restraining order to prevent such picketing, which the court granted, the company alleged that force was being used to intimidate employees. Since then it is claimed that certain of the strikers have continued to select workmen and that they are in contempt of the injunction allowed by the court and a number of them were cited to appear and show cause why they are not in contempt. After an all day hearing of the injunction contempt cases, Judge Dirlam, of common pleas court, held defendants to be guilty, but stated that he would adjourn court for two weeks and that at the end of that time his disposition of their cases would be determined by their conduct in the interval.

A REPUTATION.

How it was Made and Retained in Newark.

A good reputation is not easily earned, and it was only by hard, consistent work among our citizens that Doan's Kidney Pills won their way to the proud distinction attained in this locality. The public endorsement of scores of Newark residents has rendered invaluable service to the community. Read what this citizen says:

Mr. C. L. Wines, 295 Elm st., says: "I had more or less trouble with my kidneys. I need not dwell on the symptoms. It is enough to say that I suffered, was nearly helpless and could get nothing to help until I got Doan's Kidney Pills at Crayton Bros' drug store. I happened to read in one of the local papers something pertaining to them. I went there and obtained some. I was much surprised at the quickness of the relief they gave me and I have told lots of other people about them."

Some twenty years ago Pollakoff described a new species of wild horse discovered in the deserts of Mongolia by the late Colonel Przewalski. The animal appeared to be intermediate between the domesticated horse and the wild asses. For a long time, however, only this single example was known, and naturalists were uncertain as to whether it was really a distinct species or only a hybrid.

A writer in Nature states that the question has finally been settled by the importation of a drove of colts of the species which Mr. C. Hagenbeck of Hamburg secured for the Duke of Bedford. The animals are now at Woburn Abbey, where the writer of the article examined them.

They are, he says, undoubtedly examples of a new species. In general appearance they are more like ponies than donkeys and, judging from their build, will never grow very large. The ears are short. Most of them have white muzzles, dun colored coats and black fore legs, manes and tails, the manes being at present upright. The heads are relatively large, like those of the horse and Asiatic wild ass. There is practically no forehead and only a faint indication of a dorsal stripe in one or two individuals.

DR. O. P. SOOK.

Dear Sir:

We are well aware that there is an existing prejudice with many physicians against the prescribing of proprietary medicines, yet there is no just cause for this when it can be shown that a certain proprietary article is more speedy and efficient in the accomplishment of the result desired than other prescriptions.

A happier combination of ingredients was never discovered than that used in Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy, and many physicians recognizing this fact, regularly prescribe it for diseases of the Kidneys, Liver, Bladder and Blood, Rheumatism, Gynecesia and Chronic Constipation, or the distressing sickness so common among women, and uniformly with the greatest success.

We call to mind an instance of a doctor in Wilkesbarre, Pa. who had as a patient the president of the city council. He was a physical wreck from rheumatism. He was given all manner of prescriptions and all to no purpose. Finally on his own responsibility, the patient took a bottle of Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy and it did him worlds of good, and he continued its use until cured. His physician being a sensible man, realized that what his patients wanted was help, and whenever any one came to him after that suffering with rheumatism he prescribed Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy with the happiest results. This is but one of many similar instances, and all goes to show that you can prescribe a harmless and effective remedy that has thousands of cures to its credit, which prove beyond question its sterling worth.

If you wish it we will send you or any of your patients or friends a sample bottle to try if they will send us their names. Yours truly,

DAMAGES

FOR BREACH OF PROMISE IN SUM OF $10,000.

Miss Mame Walker Files a Sensational Charge Against George Hill of Johnstown, O.

This afternoon Kibler & Kibler as attorneys for Miss Mame Walker, the daughter of John Walker, a prominent farmer of Monroe township, filed a sensational suit for $10,000 damages for breach of promise and seduction in the Common Pleas Court, against George Hill a well known young man of Johnstown. The petition alleges that on or about the 11th day of August, 1901, the defendant promised to marry the plaintiff during the fall of said year, and that confiding in said promise she had remained single, and is now ready and willing to marry the defendant. That on or about the 15th day of September, 1901, after the promise and agreement to marry had been made, the defendant ill-treated her and now refuses to marry the plaintiff though the time fixed and agreed upon for said marriage has elapsed, and she on the 12th of December, 1901, and at other times, requested him to do so. That as special damages the plaintiff alleges that she has suffered and now sustains a permanent impairment of health and strength. She therefore asks damages in the sum of $10,000.

BADLY HURT

Was Matthew Farren Wednesday Evening—Thrown from a Cart and Kicked by a Horse

Mr. Matthew Farren, the aged cartman, who is known by nearly every one in Newark, met with a serious accident at 6 o'clock Wednesday evening. Mr. Farren was driving to his home on Fifth street, when the horse became frightened and began plunging and rearing, which threw the old gentleman to the ground. He fell under the horse's hoofs, and one of them struck him on the head inflicting a terrible wound on the left side of the scalp extending from the forehead to the back of the head. Dr. D. A. Smith was called and closed the wound which was probably 8 inches in length and Mr. Farren resting comparatively comfortable.

TRIPLING WITH EVIL

PROGRESS IMPOSSIBLE WHILE LEADERS SUPPRESS THE TRUTH.

Absurd Conclusions Through Which Duties Are Shirked—Pretending to a Condition Which Does Not Exist. Men Who Cheat Themselves.

[Special Correspondence.]

If Solomon lived in our day, instead of saying, "Of the making of books there is no end," he would say, "Of the concoction of absurdities through which to shirk duties there is no end." Modern existence is such a complicated network of results, each set of them telling a different story, that by simply suppressing some and referring to others we can justify our own conduct and give a fine impression of the times we live in. And it is so pleasant and so easy for most men to retain that which is flattering and drop that which is not! Then most people forget that humanity has not received omnipotent power for evil. Evil itself needs to be associated with good. Through no other process can it last for any long period. Any kind of mixture between good and evil makes the latter supreme in the ensemble of the most important results for any length of time. How foolish, then, to arrive at any conclusion because something good is accomplished in certain directions!

The most remarkable fact is that the very men who are always trying to cheat themselves and humanity by self justification and pretensions of social conditions being better all the time are generally the ones who remain inert, never attempting to suppress wrong or create any consensus on the subject. They practically do just the reverse. They implicitly carry right and left the conviction that wrong shall go off by itself in due time and shall disappear without the need of our doing anything against it. Such people are really those who keep wrong alive and growing all the time, the law of life being a law of growth. They may call themselves conservatives, that being one of the subtleties by which important duties are escaped, avoided, laid aside. The poor fellows don't see that conservatism has always meant destruction—that is, the prolongation of the kingdom of falsehood. Nothing worse than that is possible, and if evil could be made to talk by itself, without the instrumentality of men, it would declare that conservatism is the best friend that evil can have.

Harper's Weekly of Feb. 1 says in its editorial columns: "Not one in a thousand men dare today to tell the truth in the important affairs of life, either because he lacks courage to form any opinion of his own or has not courage enough to express it when formed and because it is against popular sentiment. A habit is even created on the subject by doing the same in small matters." It is wonderful how even the most fossilized papers often condemn the progress they are constantly glorifying. They do it unconsciously of what they are about, without noticing that they thus contradict the general tenor of their teachings; they are all bent upon perpetuating our organized and legalized social wrongs. There we have the hidden power of truth, making itself felt even through the public organs of error and falsehood, paid for by those who can purchase wrong and evil no matter how high its market price may be.

What we call abstract truth in relation to specialized facts not yet realized is far more convincing, after all, with sound minds than statements resting on isolated facts, which, even if true, may not amount to anything because disconnected from other facts, kept in the background or unknown yet. Take now the debatable question of whether our modern progress means a positive advance or a mere fantastic one invited by human conceit. Higher than any human statements or assertions referring to debatable subjects even when backed by figures and facts subject to human prejudices or mistakes, higher than all that stands the following self evident reasoning process: "We cannot prove that humanity is improving in the substantialities of life until we can at least show that a sufficient number of important men are at work in the suppression of fundamental evils through precise, simple, fundamental processes corresponding to the Golden Rule established or promulgated by Christ."

We all know that not one in five thousand of our important men has anything to say about any precise, fundamental processes with which to destroy fundamental evils. They may not even accept the idea that we have any fundamental evils, or, if they do, they will bring out that colossal absurdity of "Oh, but we are not a fallen humanity, unable to attack fundamental evils. We have no right to interfere with such evils. All we can do is to lie down and let the evils have full play upon our bodies and souls."

And so there you have it. We are good enough and have power to suppress evil by 70 or 80 per cent, so that we may be able to brag about our being better than other men, something that God alone can know. And there our power comes to an end. We can never complete the job in the suppression of evil. A certain portion must be left alive for our own amusement. The logic of our friends is wonderful.

And how can we suppress evil, how can progress ever represent substantial, permanent improvement as long as our self appointed teachers and leaders cannot even touch the truth to the root, cannot lead the rest through channels of truth because they themselves, leaders and teachers, have no precise conceptions of truth, no faith in their power to suppress evil? And when shall the plain people begin to think and act by themselves? This is the great question. J. G. G.

WHY MEN GROW WEAK.

Dr. Greene's Nervura Makes Men Healthy, Strong, Vigorous, Powerful.

'Tis indeed the pace which kills. It is not work which injures, it is overwork, worry, confinement, over-taxing the strength, strain upon nerve and body, dissipation of spring debility, which breaks down the health, weakens the nerves, exhausts the body. You become weak, nervous, restless, or fretful; have dizziness, bad feeling head and muscles, and trembling nerves, strange sensations, a feeling of anxiety, gloom, and discouragement; you are sleepless, and wake tired and unrefreshed; appetite and digestion fail, and you have kidney and liver complaint, constipation, rheumatism and finally nervous prostration, heart failure, paralysis, insanity—death.

Now, what is the remedy? Obviously something which will rebuild the shattered nerves, restore tone and vitality to the blood, brain, and nerves, and strengthen and invigorate all the organs of the body. There is nothing else known which will so completely and perfectly do this as Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy, that grandest of medicines, which is restoring the health of the people, recognized at the present day as the master remedy of the world.

The well-known druggist, Charles W. Eggleston, Esq., 329 Park Ave., Worcester, Mass., says:

"Some time ago I was taken with nervous prostration, I suffered terribly with my nerves and could get no sleep at all. I became fearfully exhausted, my stomach was in a terrible condition from dyspepsia, and I could eat hardly anything."

"I used several medicines, but without benefit. Being in the drug business myself, and having had business affairs to attend to, I determined to try it. After taking only one-half bottle I began to feel much better. I slept soundly all night, and my appetite was splendid. After taking three bottles, I ate three square meals a day and had not the slightest distress. My nerves were perfectly strong and I felt like a new man, being completely cured of all my troubles. Out of the respect I bear the manufacturers of Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy, and my desire to have the sick and suffering made well and strong, I heartily recommend it to people who are sick, and especially to people who are the same as I was, nervous and inclined toward dyspepsia and indigestion, and suffering from not being able to sleep well at night."

Especially do men grow weak in spring from the change of season, and every one needs a spring medicine and should take this best of spring remedies, Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy. It is not a patent medicine, but the prescription of a famous physician, and is therefore exactly adapted to cure. It has standing behind it the most famous and successful specialist in curing nervous, chronic or lingering diseases, Dr. Greene, 101 Fifth Avenue, New York City, and an added value and assurance of cure is given to this wonderful remedy because the Doctor can be consulted, without charge, about your case, personally or by writing to him.

JURY

IS NOW LISTENING TO THE ARGUMENTS

OF LAWYERS IN THE DR. D. H. MILLER CASE.

EVIDENCE FINISHED THURSDAY.

As Judge Taylor Did Not Limit Arguments Case Will Not Go to Jury Till Friday.

After occupying over a week and examining a large number of witnesses, on both sides in the Dr. Miller case, the raising of testimony was concluded this morning at 10:30 o'clock, and the argument to the jury was opened by Mr. Norpell for the state.

As the court did not limit the argument, it is not probable that the case will go to the jury before Friday afternoon.

WEDNESDAY AFTERNOON.

Dr. Hornby.

The afternoon session in the Doctor Miller trial opened at 1 o'clock with the first witness, Dr. J. W. Hornby, on the stand. Examined by Mr. Black.

I have had no practical experience with smallpox, but saw a supposed case last fall.

The witness gave expert testimony regarding the symptoms of the disease. He was asked a hypothetical question, embodying the symptoms generally testified to by witnesses for the defense, as having been present in the case of Miss Miller, and a history of the case. He was asked of what he would say was the matter with the patient. Witness answered that he would not pronounce it a case of smallpox, but that it could have been caused by the measles having gone in years ago, and which symptoms would likely appear at any time during her life.

I have known Dr. Miller and wife for 30 years and Mrs. Miller has not had the best of health.

Cross examined by B. G. Smythe.

I never treated a case of smallpox in my life. My knowledge is gained by reading.

Mr. Smythe read the witness a hypothetical question, as follows:

Supposing that an epidemic was prevalent in this city, called smallpox, and that defendant treated a case of this supposed smallpox, and opened a sore, rubbing it with the matter which stuck upon the knife on his pants leg, then took the patient to the pest house, and returning went to his home; that all members of the family except his wife had been vaccinated, and his wife was taken sick, and no other member of his family. The symptoms as generally testified to as present in Mrs. Miller's case, were incorporated in the question and the doctor was asked about what he thought was the matter with the patient, and he replied "smallpox."

Pendleton Livingston.

Pendleton Livingston was examined by Mr. Smythe:

I saw Samuel Weakley last fall, was at the pest house with smallpox.

Dr. Hornby Recalled.

Charles Barcus was the name of the patient I saw last fall.

Redirect by Mr. Black: I don't understand that smallpox can exist without fever.

Dr. Stedem.

Dr. J. P. H. Stedem was called and was examined by Judge Hunter. He was asked a hypothetical question embodying a number of the symptoms as testified to by witnesses for the defense and was asked what he would pronounce the disease, and he replied that he would not know what to call it but would not call it smallpox.

Cross examined by Mr. Smythe.

Sometimes an eruption soon after an attack of measles may appear, but not after 23 years.

The doctor's testimony was technical and based upon hypotheses.

To Mr. Smythe's hypothetical question to doctor: said the symptoms were those of smallpox.

Charles Miller.

Charles Miller, a barber, was examined by Mr. James:

I know Dr. Stephan and saw him on Nov. 10, last. I was at the pest house 8 days.

No cross examination.

Dr. Stedem was recalled and examined by Mr. Black: In Mr. Smythe's hypothetical question I understood he included fever in his symptoms. If there were no fever at any stage I should not think that she had smallpox.

Recross examination, Phil Smythe: The average temperature of the human body is between 98 and 99 degrees. It is hard to tell fever without the use of the thermometer, which is the only safe way.

The defendant Dr. Miller, was recalled and examined by Judge Hunter: Mrs. I had Samuel Weakley in the buggy with me, I disinfecting myself and the buggy with corrosive sublimate, one of the best disinfectants known.

Cross examined by Mr. Norpell: I remember having a conversation with Sam Weakley's brother after they both had gotten well and I told him I did not think yet that Sam had smallpox, but disinfecting my buggy after taking Weakley to the pest house, because I did not want to be censured for not doing so.

Miles Weakley was brought in, and exhibited to the jury, and Dr. Miller said the marks on his face were not those of smallpox. I told Miles Weakley there was no danger in him going to see his brother Sam. I do not know whether he went or not.

The defense rested here and the prosecution called its first witness in rebuttal, Dr. A. T. Speer, examined by Mr. Phil B. Smythe.

I did not say to Mrs. Miller when I examined her, "There are no symptoms of smallpox here," nor did I say, "You are suffering with neuralgia," nor did I say anything about her suffering with facial neuralgia, nor did I say, "I have known these spots (on the hands and face) to appear at the menstrual period." I did not say at that time "There were no symptoms of smallpox."

Cross examined by Judge Hunter: On that occasion when I looked at Mrs. Miller's hand I said, "Mrs. Miller, that looks very suspicious." She said, "Why, Doctor, I have had that eczema since I was a child." There was no conversation between us about smallpox. I signed a certificate that it was what she told me was true she had no symptoms of smallpox.

THURSDAY MORNING.

The case of Ohio vs. Dr. D. H. Miller was called at 8:30 in the Probate Court, the prosecution being in rebuttal.

Dr. C. O. Probst, Secretary of the State Board of Health was the first witness called in rebuttal Thursday morning by the prosecution.

I did not say to Dr. Miller on the occasion of my examination of his wife "There are some symptoms that might lead me to say she had smallpox, but they are very vague." Mrs. Miller said to me that the Doctor (Miller) wanted me to make the examination because he had confidence in my ability.

Dr. McCullough.

Dr. McCullough was called by the defense at this point by permission of the court. Examined by Mr. Black:

I have practiced medicine here four years, have had practical experience with smallpox during an epidemic in 1892, and treated a case in Newark two years ago. The symptoms of smallpox are chill, vomiting, fever, headache, which continue about two or three days, followed by an eruption, first regular, then papular, then vesicular, and then pustular. The macules are circulations circular in shape, not raised from the surface; papules are raised and have a shot like appearance and feeling; vesicles appear in the next stage and in the pustular stage vesicles appear to contain pus. After the pustular stage umbilication of the vesicles sets in, or a falling in of the center, and then they dry up, and leave marks or pits, which remain for some months according to the severity of the case. If a person were afflicted with measles 22 years ago and at the time overheated herself, and then drank a quantity of cold water and immediately after broke out all over her body, a rash broke out, which left little lumps under the skin, when it subsided, and often these little lumps became inflamed during the menstrual period, and that the person had eczema, and was afflicted with neuralgia of the face to which she applied counter irritants, causing blisters her menstruation was irregular, during this time she lived with her family as usual, and no one took the case and there were bluish marks on her face and hands but there had been no child's fever, headache or vomiting, I should say she did not have smallpox, as there are chills, fever and vomiting. Irregular menstruation in a woman approaching the change of life, would aggravate any skin disease she may have.

Cross examined by B. G. Smythe: The initial fever is from 100 to 103 degrees; I do not agree with the statement that the secondary fever is some times not noticed.

Mr. Smythe read this hypothetical question:

If a physician last fall was treating a case of smallpox, opened one of the pustules and wiped his knife which he had used on his trousers, if he then took the patient in his buggy to the pest house, and afterward went home, taking no precautions, and about two weeks afterward the physician's wife was taken sick, and upon convalescence physicians found on the palms of her hand and soles of her feet, spots of a dark red or purplish color?

Witness said he thought there was no smallpox; before he could say it was, he would require more definite symptoms than were given.

Dr. C. A. Hatch.

Continuing the examination in rebuttal Dr. C. A. Hatch was called and examined by Mr. Norpell, who sought to rebut Mrs. Miller's testimony that the boil on her forehead broke in several places. An objection was sustained.

Dr. Miller did not say to me when he came to ask me to make the examination that Dr. Day objected to me making the examination. If a patient had measles 22 years ago, which at the time went on in her there would not be any sign of it after that length of time. I did not tell Mrs. Miller that she did not have smallpox in reply to a question by her, nor did I tell her she had no symptoms. I do not remember stating to Dr. Miller that his wife had no symptoms of smallpox.

Cross examined by Judge Hunter:

Measles are caused by the germ peculiar to the disease. It is better to have measles and other infantile diseases in childhood, if the recovery is good. To drive back measles generally affects the lungs, I have known it to affect the eyes, cause catarrh and other things produced from poisoned blood.

Dr. D. E. Stephan.

Dr. D. E. Stephan: At the time Dr. Miller and I were at Weakley's he opened a sore on Weakley and wiped the point of the knife on his clothes.

An objection to this answer was sustained.

He examined Weakley's temperature which was 102 degrees. I did not examine Mrs. Miller's scalp and tell the doctor there were no symptoms of smallpox present. On the 25th of November when Dr. Day and I went to Dr. Miller's office, Dr. Miller said he wanted a man of more ability than Dr. Probst to make the examination. No cross examination.

At this point the prosecution and defense both rested, and Judge Taylor said he would not limit either side in the argument.

Mr. Norpell opened the argument for the state. Mr. Fitzgibbon will be the second speaker for the state, the argument being closed by Mr. Smythe. Mr. Black will be open for the defense, followed by Mr. James. Judge Hunter closing the argument for the defense.

Mrs. James Connors was in trial today.

If the consumptive could only keep from getting worse it would be some encouragement.

Scott's Emulsion at least gives tired nature a breathing spell. The nourishment and strength obtained from Scott's Emulsion are a great relief to the exhausted system.

This treatment alone often enables the consumptive to gather force enough to throw off the disease altogether.

MAKING A LIVE TOWN

RAPID GROWTH OF BARTLESVILLE, K. T., IN A SHORT TIME.

Incorporated in 1894, it is now foremost in the rank of Territory towns—due to the energy and the capital of a few citizens.

Among the many towns of the new southwest which have sprung into life like night born plants within the past five years is Bartlesville, I. T., says the Kansas City Times. Though young and laboring under some conditions beyond the power of the citizens to quite remedy, which have hampered it to a certain extent, it is foremost in the rank of territory towns.

Peculiarly and bountifully favored by nature and having for its bone and sinew such men as build empires in the rugged waste, Bartlesville is destined to ere long forge ahead and become one of the great manufacturing and distributing points of the southwest.

It is situated on the western bank of the Big Caney river and is 200 miles south of Kansas City, in the new part of the Cherokee Nation, twenty miles south of the Kansas line, and on the Bartlesville branch of the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe railroad. It is the only town in the Indian Territory using natural gas for fuel and light. A telephone system is now in course of construction, and the municipality will soon be provided with waterworks. The citizens of the place are confident of its future and are proud of the start it has already made.

Of course men who have builded a city are apt to overestimate its worth, and such one might think is the case with Bartlesville. But investigation honestly and impartially made establishes as fact all its citizens assert. Then one meets many commercial travelers here in this awakening country. No class of men know so well industrial conditions as these busy fellows who skip about from town to town month in and out from year to year. They are physicians to the trade; their hands are always on the pulse of enterprise. Every fluctuation is noted. Every change in the patient's condition is set down.

Traveling men say of Bartlesville: "It's a live town. The man who gets in on the ground floor there will make money."

Bartlesville was incorporated in 1894. The original town contained but forty acres. Under a recent government survey it was enlarged to 320 acres. The streets are all regularly laid out, and the buildings are of a superior nature. The town is surrounded by the richest agricultural region in the Indian Territory. It has a primary and high school and Baptist, Methodist and Christian churches. Above 300 pupils are enrolled in the public school, and all indications are that the population of 1,500 will be doubled within the current year.

Natural gas was discovered about a year ago, and now the Bartlesville Gas and Oil company has mains on the streets and pipes supplying almost every house in the city. The supply of gas is inexhaustible. In two of the wells operated by the gas company the pressure is 650 pounds. Gas is found at a depth of from 1,200 to 1,300 feet and petroleum a hundred feet deeper.

There are seven oil wells with an output of 100 barrels daily now in operation. These are owned by the Osage Oil company of New York. There is, unquestionably, plenty of oil beneath the ground upon which Bartlesville stands. It has been struck while digging wells at a depth of thirty-five and forty feet.

The gas wells yield fuel sufficient to run endless machinery, and the Big Caney river is an inexhaustible water supply. There is an opening at present for a brickyard, a grain elevator and a flour mill. Great deposits of shale lie waiting the man who is wise enough to put in brickmaking machinery and use it. A market awaits him at his door and beyond is a field of unfilled orders and constant demand.

The farmers in the country outlying are not those apathetic creatures who lean on the fence and watch the weeds strangle the crops. They work. And with the rich soil to aid them good crops are the rule. Within ninety days this present season over 200,000 bushels of corn was shipped from Bartlesville. These thrifty farmers buy their farming implements and other supplies in Bartlesville, and the trade of the Osage reservation is fast coming that way. The merchants who are now there are kept busy, and not a day passes that some enterprising trader from some town or city to the north is not there looking for a location. All the buildings for business purposes are now occupied, and new ones are going up. The singing of the carpenter's saw and the crack of the hammer are heard on every hand. There is not an idle man in town.

The town of Bartlesville owes its present thriving condition to a few men who have trusted their capital and energies to its ultimate success as a business center. These men are now engaged in trade there and are reaping the multiplied profit of their years of toil.

A Town Born Pioneer.
It is probable that almost every railroad in the country would be glad to work in conjunction with the citizens of a town or village to bring about needed improvements, and the expense would thus be shared between them. Lines like the Pennsylvania, New York Central and Chicago, Burlington and Quincy have erected many fine depots at various village stations and also beautified their grounds and paved the approaches. In most cases the street leading from the depot is in the worst possible condition when it should be in the very best.

A HOME FOR THE HORSE.

Stable That Boasts Not Only Artistic but Sanitary Points.

[Copyright, 1902, by C. H. Venn, 41 West Twenty-fourth street, New York.]

When a man goes to an architect or a builder and makes known the fact that he desires to build a home for himself, the first thing that he demands in the house which he proposes to erect is that it shall be constructed on sanitary lines. No matter how simple or how ornate the design, no matter how little or how great the cost, the prospective purchaser will insist,

FRONT ELEVATION.

and properly enough, that the building shall be put together in such a way that it will be health protecting, not health destroying. He may not make this demand in so many words, but the demand is in evidence just the same, and the architect is forced willy nilly to pay heed to it.

How different it is, however, when a man wants to build an outhouse or a stable. As a rule, nothing is considered there but the cost, and anything in the way of a home is deemed good enough for the beast of burden. As a mere matter of economy the builder of a stable should realize that it is money well spent to provide a healthy house for his horse.

The plans shown in this article are designed to meet just such a requirement, and, while the stable cannot be called a cheap one in the ordinary sense of the word, yet the reader who builds as suggested will in the long run be forced to admit that his money was put out to good advantage. A stable can be built from these designs at a cost of from $1,000 to $1,500, according to the local price of labor, materials used, and so forth.

The plans provide for a building which shall be not only a stable, but a carriage house. The stable section is on the left hand side and has a manure pit at the rear, with doors from both stable and yard. The feed shoots are located near the box stall. In addition to this stall, which is a commodious one, there are three smaller stalls, each having a separate window.

The floors of the stalls are laid on a slight incline to a gutter which runs to a cesspool on the outside of the stable. The bottom of the stable can be of concrete, with a brick floor superimposed. The building is entered by a large swinging door, with inclined platform to the ground. There is also a smaller door to the left of this.

The carriage house is on the right of the stable and is connected with it by a sliding door. It is furnished with a washing place for the carriages, drained to the outside in a similar way to the stable. There is an ample closet for the harness. A stairway leads to the left. Large windows give plenty of light and ventilation.

In the left is a door to receive the hay, straw, feed, etc., for the animals housed below. If desired, a partition can be put up to give a sleeping place for the man who has charge of the horses. There is sufficient light and ventilation from three windows and a ventilator in the top of the roof. The framing should be of spruce built in the brace frame style and covered with surface hemlock sheathing boards. All trimmings should be of white pine, with the doors of yellow pine.

Dimensions.—Front, 50 feet; side, 20 feet. Height of stories: First, 14 feet; second, 11 feet.

Cementing Gables.

To plaster gables with cement use a good quality of slow setting portland cement with about equal proportions of clean, sharp sand and apply as ordinary plaster. If it is desired to ornament it in any way, such as inserting bits of glass, stone or gravel, these should be put in place while the cement is fresh. When the cement is in place, it should be kept moist by frequent wetting until the work is entirely finished.

HOW TO CLEAN LACES.

And a Few Hints on the Washing of Delicate Embroideries.

How to "launder" delicate fabrics is an art that many a housewife at some time finds cause to learn. There is scarcely a woman but can tell a sad tale of dainty linens and costly laces ruined at the laundry to which they were sent, says the Philadelphia North American. The only safe way is to have such things done at home by women under your direct supervision or by yourself.

Such clothes, for instance, elaborately embroidered, can be washed so that they will lose none of their beauty if it is done in the right way.

Make a foaming suds of pure castile soap in a bowl of water. Wash the fabric carefully in this, using no borax or ammonia or bluing. Rinse in warm water and finally clap the article vigorously in your hands to partially dry it. Iron it at once on the wrong side, using for the ironing sheet beneath it an old blanket covered with a white cloth. The value of the woolen sheet is that it allows the embroidery to press into its soft surface, and when the process is completed the design will stand out in raised effect.

Fine laces, too, are invariably endangered when you send them to the cleaners. If they are not very badly soiled, they may be easily cleaned at home with calcined magnesia. Spread the lace on a white sheet of paper, sprinkle with the magnesia powder, put another paper on top and press between the leaves of a book. Leave it for several days, and then shake out the magnesia, which will have absorbed the dirt, and the lace will be found fresh and clean.

How to Clean Brass.

A scientific authority claims that it is a mistake to clean brass with acid, as it soon becomes dull after such treatment. Sweet oil and putty powder, followed by soap and water, are said to brighten brass or copper as well as anything else.

Millions Put to Work.

The wonderful activity of the new century is shown by an enormous demand for the world's best workers—Dr. King's New Life Pills. For Constipation, Sick Headache, Bilelessness, or any trouble of Stomach, Liver or Kidneys they're unrivaled. Only 25c, at Hall's drug store.

CHILD LABOR IN THE SOUTH

Sentiment and Legislation in Alabama and South Carolina.

The Rev. Edgar Gardner Murphy of Montgomery, Ala., chairman of the Alabama state committee which seeks to abolish the labor of young children in that state, it at the Hotel St. Denis, says the New York Times, where he said to a reporter that New England capitalists were largely to blame for the conditions under which it has been conservatively estimated that in some sections of the south more than 20 per cent of the employees are less than fourteen years of age. The protection to children, he said, was removed as a concession to a mill brought into Alabama by Massachusetts capital, and in efforts during the last sessions of the legislature to have the protection restored the most aggressive and effective opposition came from salaried representatives of northern investment.

While New York and Massachusetts, he said, protect children up to fourteen years, Alabama only seeks to protect hers up to twelve, and he holds that it is an economic as well as a humanitarian question.

"To protect these children is to protect the operatives of the future," he said. "The conditions of child labor result in the depletion of the vitality and efficiency of the future operative."

Chairman Murphy said that he had heard it stated that the northern owners of the mills are striving to perpetuate present conditions with this very end in view, reasoning that as long as they can keep down the intelligence and efficiency of southern operatives their great New England mills will be safer from competition in the finer grades of products. He said he did not share this opinion. Reform in child labor and the educational movement in the south have much in common, he said.

"When children from six to twelve years of age are at labor in the mills for from ten to twelve hours a day, the educational provisions of philanthropy or the state must seem like a mockery of their helplessness."

In regard to statements that great philanthropy was shown to the child workers in the mills by their employers he said in one mill controlled from Boston a little girl of eight years old had all the fingers of her right hand torn from their sockets, being the second accident of the same kind in the same factory. As compensation for the loss of her hand the owners promised her continued employment at 9 cents a day.

"The fundamental principle of our appeal is not that Alabama is guiltless or that the north is willfully indifferent," Chairman Murphy concluded. "That would be unjust to the north and unjust to our own sense of right and truth. Our elementary condition is simply that the common conscience will hold, and should hold, the capital of the east to the moral and economic standards of the east. The appeal of our committee has not been without response. We care to indulge in no recriminations for the past. We have prayed that in our approaching struggle the north will stand with us and not against us, for we have no intention whatever of seeing her investments at the south embarrassed by complex and oppressive labor legislation. Our motives cannot long be misunderstood."

In South Carolina the sentiment for the more humane regulation of child labor is growing, as the following dispatch from Columbia shows:

"The bill for the restriction of child labor in the cotton mills has been rejected again, the house refusing to concur with the senate, as was the case a year ago. A decided advance in public sentiment, however, was indicated in the house vote, which this time was 52 to 54. A year ago only thirty-two members of the house favored the measure. This year, too, the bill was given more consideration. Long hearings in the committee room were followed by two days of debate in the house. The debate followed the lines of a year ago, pleas for humanity's sake being met by claims that the agitation was prompted by mill owners in the north and that such restrictions in South Carolina would drive needed mill labor into adjacent and more 'liberal' states."

Spies in the Unions.

Edward Boyce, president of the Western Federation of Miners, has in his possession a statement from a mine owner who sympathizes strongly with organized labor and who, although a member of the Mine Owners' association, does not approve of the attempts that are being made to destroy labor organizations. "I can inform you," the mine owner writes to Boyce, "that your unions are honeycombed with spies who will try to make them the scapegoat of other people's schemes, claiming that the shutdowns in Butte, Rossland and elsewhere are on account of stock jobbing, but the real intent is the suppression of your unions. The Mine Owners' association, which extends over the continent wherever mining is carried on, as well as in England and other parts of Europe, realizes that your organization is getting far too strong and will have to be checked, and it has outlined and is putting in operation a system to accomplish this object. It realizes that it cannot cripple the federation by making the fight in one place, such as Rossland, but will work all other localities in sympathy wherever possible."

Boyce's friend says the working forces are to be reduced and every effort made to create a large surplus of unemployed miners. When the idle men become restless, it will be an easy matter to create confusion and discord, force strikes and lockouts and break the union.

A CAUSE OF HEADACHE.

One Very Common Cause, Generally Over-Looked.

Headache is a symptom, an indication of derangement or disease in some organ, and the cause of the headache is difficult to locate because so many diseases have headache as a prominent symptom; derangement of the stomach and liver, heart trouble, kidney disease, lung trouble, eye strain or ill fitting glasses, all produce headaches, and if we could always locate the organ which is at fault the cure of obstinate headaches would be a much simpler matter.

However, for that form of headache called frontal headache, pain back of the eyes and in forehead, the cause is now known to be catarrh of the head and throat; when the headache is located in back of head and neck it is often caused from catarrh of the stomach or liver.

At any rate catarrh is the most common cause of such headaches and the cure of the catarrh causes a prompt disappearance of the headaches.

There is at present no treatment for catarrh so convenient and effective as Stuart's Catarrh Tablets, a new internal remedy in tablet form, composed of antiseptics like eucalyptol, guaiacol and blood root which act upon the blood and cause the elimination of the catarrhal poison from the system through the natural channels.

Miss Cora Ainsley, a prominent school teacher in one of our normal schools, speaks of her experience with catarrhal headaches and eulogizes Stuart's Catarrh Tablets as a cure for them. She says: "I suffered daily from severe frontal headaches and pain in and back of the eyes, at times so intensely as to incapacitate me in my daily duties. I had suffered from catarrh, more or less, for years, but never thought it was the cause of my headaches, but finally became convinced that such was the cause because the headaches were always worse whenever I had a cold or fresh attack of catarrh."

"Stuart's Catarrh Tablets were highly recommended to me as a safe and pleasant catarrh cure, and after using a few fifty-cent boxes which I procured from my druggist I was surprised and delighted to find that both the catarrh and headaches had gone for good."

Stuart's Catarrh Tablets are sold by druggists at fifty cents per package, under the guarantee of the proprietors that they contain absolutely no cocaine (found in so many cheap catarrh cures), no opium (so common in cheap cough cures), nor any harmful drug. They contain simply the wholesome antiseptics necessary to destroy and drive from the system the germs of catarrhal disease.

The Talbot Steel Process.

The principle of the Talbot steel process is a combination of the open hearth worked on the continuous process. The bath of molten metal in the furnace is worked up to a certain point, and then a portion of the steel is poured out, the charge in the furnace being then made up to its normal strength by molten iron taken up in ladles from the adjoining blast furnaces and poured into the furnace. The furnace will be tipped or, rather, a portion of the steel will be taken from it at very short periods, probably about every four hours, and this will constitute a very rapid process of manufacture.

A Homemade Last.

A writer reports in the English Mechanic that he could get no last made that suited his tender feet and says: "I filled a pair of worn-out shoes with plaster of paris, and after it had set I cut away the tops of the shoes, trimmed the plaster casts and had iron lasts cast from the plaster ones. I then put the iron lasts into a pair of new boots which I could not wear, dampened the boot tops and hammered them gently, leaving them on the lasts until they dried. On taking them off I found them to be a perfectly comfortable fit, just like the old boots."

A Large Submarine Boat.

M. Goulet, the French submarine boat inventor, is now at work on the designs of a boat to carry 200 persons to be used in the channel service across the strait of Dover. CEDAR CAMP

HAD ANOTHER "OPEN MEETING" WEDNESDAY NIGHT.

Program Full of Interest to the 350 Who Were Present—The Camp is Booming.

The members of Cedar Camp, No. 4727 Modern Woodmen of America, held another one of those popular open meeting Wednesday night, and the hall was packed with an enthusiastic audience numbering 350.

The program opened with a fancy drill by the Forester team, and was followed by a selection by the Solid Four orchestra, after which Myre Hall was introduced and gave a very able recitation.

Captain F. G. Warden then delighted the audience with a solo and the prolonged applause made him "come again."

Professors Bailey and Thrap then gave a selection on the mandolin and guitar, which was much appreciated.

Then the Woodmen and their many friends were delighted to have a recitation from their old favorite, Mr. Hamilton, followed by another number by the Solid Four.

Griff Rosebraugh gave some of his favorite songs which delighted the crowd.

Rev. J. C. Schindei gave a short but appropriate talk on "Fraternity" followed by Professors Bailey and Beasley on the banyo and guitar.

Following this excellent program the Foresters served a lunch composed of those famous "Woodmen oyster sandwiches, pumpkin pie, pickles and coffee," and the crowd left voting that they had been royally entertained and that there was no reason why the Modern Woodmen should not go to one thousand members in Newark.

Cedar Camp Modern Woodmen now has a membership of 601 in absolute good standing and a great deal of this growth has been brought about by the present officers, with O. B. Young, V. C. in the chair, ably assisted by the Forester team under the direction of E. C. Richardson, chief forester.

This team is enjoying a state wide reputation for proficiency in work and is receiving calls from other camps to come and exemplify the work.

The boys expect to visit the head camp in Indianapolis in 1933 and expect to carry with them the state banner as the largest camp in the state.

COL. C. B. ADAMS

Chosen as Head of Boys' Industrial School at Lancaster, Successor to Mr. Hilles.

Ohio will now require a new assistant adjutant general. The board of trustees of the State Industrial School for Boys accepted the resignation of Superintendent C. D. Hilles to take effect on May 15, and elected Colonel C. B. Adams to the vacancy.

Colonel Adams has been in fact the executive officer in the adjutant general's office for the past two years and his work has won the highest esteem of the governor. His military training will serve him well in his new field as military instruction is given in the school.

Colonel C. B. Adams has long been identified with the Ohio National Guard, rising from the ranks to the position of lieutenant colonel. GOOD THING

For Managers is Grand Opera With Royalty as a Side Issue—Proved In New York.

A New York telegram to the Advocate yesterday said the receipts from the opera performance given in honor of the Prince from Prussia exceeded $60,000. The following was wired from New York to the Pittsburgh Dispatch:

Sixty-one thousand dollars to see an opera performance! That is estimated what residents of New York and favored visitors from other cities gave up in cold cash for the privilege of being present at the gala performance in honor of Prince Henry at the Metropolitan Opera House. The wildest flights of managerial imagination have never encompassed such a dream of box-office receipts for a single performance. Every seat in the house was sold. The lowest price for a chair on the parquet floor was $30. The balconies was sold out at from $5 to $10. Seats in the family circle and gallery brought $5, and general admissions sold at that figure. It was supposed at first that the income from the gala performance over and above the rental of the Opera House, the expenses of the performance and the decorations would be turned over to the general fund of the Entertainment Committee. Such is not to be the case. The splendid results of tonight's performance will help to swell the annual dividend of the Metropolitan Opera House Company. As most of the gentlemen composing this company are among those who are paying a good price for the privilege of attending the performance, and have opened their purse strings freely for the entertainment of the royal visitor, they will enjoy a little rebate on their philanthropy. An expert on gala performances and their cost, who is well acquainted with the salary list of Grau's organization, says the cost of tonight's performance could not possibly exceed $15,000, while it will not likely go above $12,000. Mr. Grau will not discuss this estimate, but says he has spent $10,000 alone for decorations and $2,000 for the silk souvenir programmes. Taking Mr. Grau's figures and adding them to the estimated cost of the musical end of the evening this result is obtained: Receipts, $61,000; cost of staging, salaries, etc., $15,000; decorations, lights, etc., $10,000; souvenir programmes $2,000. Total $27,000. Profit $34,000. All of which goes to show that grand opera is a remunerative proposition, with royalty as a side issue.
